

JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Discusses Hot Weather and Other Affairs. Mr. and Mrs. George R. Packard's Camp at Upper Saranac Lake Opens for Six Weeks

WELL, as a friend of mine often remarks, "I'm just here to state," it's hot. Not that I'm surprised, because after all that rain we had to make up for it. And being one of these Kismet people when it comes to weather, my heroic cry is "Eventually, why not now?"

Nevertheless, I reserve the right to remark in no uncertain accents that this is hot weather, and if you care to mistake the "H" for an "N," why go as far as you like. But don't let this little prelude make you think that I'm discussing the weather because I haven't anything else to discuss—oh, not at all.

I AM SO glad to hear that Mrs. John W. Converse is better. Did you know that she had been in the hospital with appendicitis? She expects to get home this week. Her husband, Captain Converse, returned from overseas about six weeks ago.

Mrs. Converse was Mrs. C. Randolph Snowden, and before that she was Miss Bertha Churchman. Her mother, Mrs. William B. Churchman, who has been down at Atlantic City with Mrs. Alexander Brinton Cole, is with her now. Her two children, Katherine Snowden and C. Randolph Snowden, Jr., are both in camp for the summer.

MR. AND Mrs. George R. Packard, of Wayne, are leaving today for their camp on Upper Saranac Lake. The place is called Camp in the Way, which is a fascinating name, I think. Don't people have the strangest and most unusual names for their places and summer places and camps? Some of them are plain impossible, others are silly, and I have heard a few that are so "sissy" that if I were going there, I should undoubtedly get hopelessly lost or spend the night out in the highway rather than ask the direction using the foolish name of the place.

But "Camp in the Way" sounds attractive. And the Packards are going to make the most of it. They are going to stay six weeks, and have, as far as I can see, a continuous house party with different people every once in a while.

Their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Billings, are going up with them—she was Mary Packard, you know—and Katherine Lea, daughter of the George C. Thayers, and Betty Trotter—who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Trotter, of Chestnut Hill, who are at Kennebunkport, Me., and Elizabeth Packard was visiting there for a time while Betty was there—and Mary B. Thayer, daughter of the George C. Thayers, and Villanova, who are in the Poconos, and Elizabeth McMichael is going up later. They always have a crowd up there, and they do have such marvelous times. Lucile Carter and Ruth Hobart were among the girls who went up last year. I remember, and I believe Katherine Lea was there, too.

THIS is tennis week down at Cape Cod, so I guess there will be a good deal of going on down there. I think there's a golf tournament on, too. Phyllis Walsh is going down, or has gone, by this time. She's going to stay with Catharine Casard. By the way, I saw Catharine in town one day last week. She was wearing up Chestnut street, in a most attractive black silk dress with a white lace vest, and an unusual looking blue link chain. In fact, the chain was so good looking that I missed her hat, which was rather wide brimmed, and straw, but if you should stand me up against a stone wall and the way it was trimmed, or my life, it would have to be my young life—because as I say that blue thing was pretty.

PEACE JUBILEE PLANS ABANDONED

Guenther Does Not Believe Fete Will Be Held Even if $100,000 Is Appropriated

There is little likelihood of a "peace jubilee" in this city, to celebrate the ending of the world war.

J. J. Guenther, executive secretary of the Mayor's committee for the celebration, said today the project had virtually been abandoned.

"I am confident the city will have no peace celebration, even though Council has appropriated $100,000 for the event," Mr. Guenther said.

"In the first place, Mayor Smith does not think $100,000 is enough to stage the celebration. Joseph E. Widener, the chairman of the committee, holds the same view.

"Also, it is an impossibility to stage a two or three-day celebration with its many details between now and the first or second week in September, when it was proposed to hold it."

American Legion officers are fostering a project to have the city give discharged soldiers a bonus of $100 each in place of spending any appropriations for a celebration.

Deaths of a Day WILLIAM BARNETT

Starch Merchant Was Oldest Member of Commercial Exchange

William Barnett, sixty-two years old, the oldest member of the Commercial Exchange and senior member of the firm of William Barnett & Sons, starch merchants, 730 South Broad street, died Sunday at his home, Mount Alverno, Delaware county.

Mr. Barnett was born in the old district of Southwest, and entered the starch business with his father, Thomas Barnett, afterward succeeding him in its management. This business, which has been in the Barnett family more than a hundred years, was founded by Bartholomew Bussler, in 1780.

In 1854 Mr. Barnett married Miss Catherine Stephens Hanley, daughter of John Hanley, a Philadelphia merchant. He is survived by five children, Mrs. George S. Hull, William Barnett, Jr., Miss Sarah Barnett, Mrs. Joseph C. Ferguson, Jr., and Edwin S. Barnett. Mr. Barnett died in 1912.

John T. Ehinger, of 2940 North Lawrence street, who was engaged in the real estate and insurance business at 294 Diamond street, died suddenly on Sunday. He was a member of the board of directors of St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, Tacony, an officer of several building and loan associations, member of Commodore Barry Council, No. 578, Knights of Columbus, and various societies of St. Bonifacius' Catholic Church.

Horace Esler, a manufacturer's agent of this city, died Sunday in the Frankford Hospital. He was fifty-five years old and a graduate of the Williamson School. His funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from the residence of Horace B. Griffith in the Green Valley Presbyterian Church and burial will be made in the adjoining cemetery.

Arthur B. Chester, Ocean City, N. J., July 29.—Arthur B. Chester, son of James M. Chester, with whom he was connected in the real estate business in this city, was found dead in bed by his wife yesterday. He was thirty-six years old. Death was due to acute dilation of the heart.

Viennese Composers Plan to Begin Trip in Spring

Vienna, July 29.—(By A. P.)—Oscar Strauss, the Viennese light opera composer, is organizing a tour of the United States for himself and a number of Austrian composers, among them Franz Lehár and Emmerich Kalman, and singers. It is the purpose of Mr. Strauss to begin the tour next spring, if passports are obtainable.

Philadelphia Man Dies of Wounds

One Philadelphia is named in a casualty list containing a total of sixty-seven names made public by the War Department today. Corporal John A. Gergruber, 3723 Diamond street, died of wounds.

KEITH BILL VARIED TO SUIT ALL TASTES

Four Marx Brothers and Paul Decker & Co. Headline Attractive Summer Entertainment

Prohibition has failed to make any appreciable difference in vaudeville acts, as was proven last night when Paul Decker convulsed large audiences at Keith's with his inebriation scenes in "The Ruby Ray."

"The Ruby Ray" is one of the funniest and most original which has come here in some time and is played by both Decker and his associates in admirably ludicrous fashion. Sooner or later, Decker will be "President" by the same author, does not objectionally interfere with the success of the act.

Strange to say, the other headliner was also an exceptionally good one, thanks to the individual efforts of the four Marx brothers, whose really unique talents are given ample scope. Arthur with his delightful "happy sob," Leonard with his convulsions at the piano, Herbert, who with Jean Maddox gave some splendid dancing gymnastics, and Julius, who sang several songs and interpolated much of the fun, all of them showed real skill and sense.

That old favorite, Winnie Lightner, with the help of her sister, Leonard Alexander, displayed her really extraordinary personality at its best. Resembling Florence Moore in some respects, Winnie always sings and grimaces her way into the hearts of her audiences and convulses them with laughter at the same time.

Orelle Stamm had an original act, with a most likable dog to assist him. Stamm was both a singer and a strong man of ability.

Other acts which pleased a large summer audience were Will Burns and Eddie Lyon, Arnold and Allan, Moss and Frye and the five Partrons.

CROSS KEYS—A special all-week attraction is the company of Mack Senneker's sprightly bathing girls and the picture, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," which recently proved successful at the Chestnut Street Opera House. Of just the right degree of summy lightness, the bathing girls' act is bound to be successful. A surrounding bill of excellent merit accompanies the special feature. For the first half of the week they are (C) Conroy and Dixon, comedians; Artie Hall, the Georgian girl, in synchronized melodies; Rolf and May and a new episode of the picture serial, "Perils of Thunder Mountain." A change of bill will be made on Thursday to surround the Senneker feature.

GLOBE—H. Bart McHugh's latest musical tabloid, entitled "Here They Come," tickled a large audience in spite of the heat and provoked unusual enthusiasm for a summer show. The Langin, supported by a large and capable cast, supplied varied entertainment and put over songs and the humor to the very best advantage. Hyman and Adler in a new sketch, "The Result," Charlotte and Lewis, Harriet and Freeman, comedians and singers, Burke and Walsh, two Dumont favorites; "In Lazon Love"; the Four Ladies, gymnasts; King and Harvey and Lalloen and Dupree, in a scenic shooting novelty, comprise the excellent bill.

GRAND—With a cast composed entirely of real sailors and with the added reputation of having accompanied President Wilson across the Atlantic and having been shown to him aboard the George Washington, "Every Sailor," the headliner, is an act unique in vaudeville. The sailors make a remarkable "beauty show" and sing catchy songs in admirable fashion. As a surrounding program for this delightful act there are the Three Daring Sisters, in an acrobatic act; Eugene Emmett, with tangle Irish tenor; Roatina and Marrette, in their aviation skit; Alexander and company and the second episode of the new photoplay serial called "The Great Gambler."

NIXON—A well-rounded bill, including such clever acts as the Farrell-Taylor Trio, in a very unusual black-face travesty, and the Rose Revue, with a dancing company of excellent young entertainers, is on view. Not by any means the least feature is the adroit and resourceful comedian, Taylor Holmes, in his newest picture, "Taxi." A complete change of bill will be made on Thursday.

TREAT AT STANLEY; ARCADIA FILM WINS

Stanley—"The Better Wife," with Clara Kimball Young. Story by Lemore Coffey, directed by W. P. Earle. Select play.

This picture approaches the ideal in color photography and lighting and it also gives an insight into the possibility of the return to a well-balanced cast instead of a star. True, Clara Kimball Young is heralded as the luminary, but it is the excellence of the supporting players' work which counts.

The story, fair in its construction, is based upon the novel, "The Love Quest." The idea that the first wife of a man was unfaithful and that the second one knew, but kept silent, is the chief theme. The husband imagines he must keep his identity in the departed first spouse. Kathryn Williams, first girl of the serial story plays; Lillian Walker, a former Vitagraph star; Ben Alexander, whose services seem to be in great demand by reason of the number of his recent pictures, and other players of note, including Nigel Harris, Barbara Tennant, Irving Cummings and Edward Kimball, Miss Young's father, appear.

Because of the beautiful quality of the natural color photography disclosed in "Old Faithful," the Prizma picture, substituted for the announced "Apache Trail," now interest is developed in the swimmers of the pools, geyser and color of Prizmatic film at Yellowstone Park.

ARADIA—"The Firing Line," with Irene Castle, Irving Berlin, Robert Emmett Doolittle, directed by Charles Maurer. Feature play.

Although it is hot and the film fans tired of summer films of weak caliber, there is a treat in store for those who seek the cool interior of this theatre this week. There they will find a play that holds the attention from the start—and there is something doing every minute. It has the power to make the spectator believe in the future screening of popular novelties.

In several instances the success of this piece belongs to Charles Mingler, who directed it, and to David Powell, who will not remain long in the supporting line, but whose work should receive stellar reward. As for Irene Castle, she does everything which any one might reasonably expect of her, swims, wears modish clothes and poses in artistic attitudes, not to overlook the little dance. She has improved in her acting, or is it the director's suggestions?

The motivation is a loveless marriage and the solution of the way out when nature finds two lovers on the frigid line. There is no war in this play and the line mentioned is not of martial character. Many players are in the important support next to Mr. Powell.

VICTORIA—"Putting One Over," with George Walsh. Directed by Edward Dillon. Feature play.

One thing certain, George Walsh usually can be relied upon to give his admirers a good hour of athletic stuff even when he is "putting one over" at the expense of a plot. There is a lot of fun in this tale of "faked" identity, which involves the fattening of initials, looks alike and the one a scene upon the person of George Walsh. All lead to a lot of exciting complications, Edith Stockton is the heroine, and Frank Beamish, Jack Dillon and others are in the support.

REGENT—"In His Brother's Place," with Halie Hamilton and Edna Mae. Directed by Harry L. Hunt. Feature play.

Here once more is found the combination of author and star. It is means of an introduction showing the older relatives of two boys, each bent on separate paths of life, the story opens in a manner that has heart interest from the start.

There are few comedy relief situations in this tale of two brothers, one a business man, the other a minister of the gospel, the other a minister of the gospel.

The latter, however, is not very aggressive in his methods. In the cast besides the star there appear Marguerite Snow, a former star in her own right; Mary McVoy, Howard Crampton and Ward Wynn.

Hall "Caine's" story, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," will continue at the Palace, while Clyde Fitch's play, "Girls," with Marguerite Clark as star, is at the Strand. Out at the Loebau, "The Avalanche" has Elsie Ferguson as chief player.

TO ASK FUNDS FOR COLLEGE

Woman's Medical Institution to Start Drive October 13

Plans are afoot for a fund-raising campaign for the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, according to a statement made today by Dr. Martin Tracy, dean of the college. The campaign, which will be conducted entirely by women, will open October 13 and continue until October 23.

The Woman's Medical College, which is at North College avenue and Twenty-first street, was founded in 1850, and is now the only medical school in the United States which admits women exclusively. Its alumni numbers more than 1400.

The appeal for funds is occasioned by the need for extending and developing the work of the medical college for a new residence hall for nurses and students, and for enlarging and increasing the facilities of the Woman's College Hospital, which is connected with the medical college.

MRS. MARY WILSON SHOWN IN MOVIES

Housewives interested in cooking have an opportunity this week of seeing Mrs. Mary A. Wilson, the EVANESCENT PRIZMA LEADER food economist, in the "movies" at the Stanley Theatre.

On the screen Mrs. Wilson, who has cooked for the late Queen Victoria and for Uncle Sam's "gobs," proves, among other things, how to make two Victoria sponge cakes for twenty-five cents.

Mrs. Wilson uses three cents worth of gas, twelve and a quarter cents worth of sugar, twelve and a half cents worth of eggs, two cents worth of flour, two cents worth of baking powder and two cents worth of flavoring. With her "knock" and a little patience, she eventually draws out of the oven two eye-openers and hunger-soothers that turn the eyes of housewives green with envy and the inners of the menfolk weak with craving.

And Mrs. Wilson says, in screen language, that anybody can make such cakes just as good and just as cheap if only "the sugar and the eggs are creamed right."

On the screen the first scene discloses the Newlyweds reading the EVANESCENT PRIZMA LEADER. "Hubby" fondly gazes over the wife
